

1998 Industry Assessment Rates

WORKERS'
COMPENSATION
BOARD OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

The 1998 industry assessment rate lists are published policy of the WCB Panel of Administrators under provisions of section 82 of the Workers Compensation Act.

Introduction

How to use this booklet

This booklet contains two complete lists of industry assessment rates for 1998. The first is an alphabetical list of assessment rates by industry description (page 1). The second list organizes assessment rates by industry class number (page 32).

Assessment rates are per $100 of payroll. For example, if your business is classified under “food concession” (industry class number 062709), your assessment rate for 1998 is $1.09 for each $100 of payroll.

All assessment rates listed in this booklet take effect January 1, 1998. The maximum assessable wage per worker for 1998 is $56,900. The minimum annual assessment is $25.

How industry classification works

When an employer registers with the Workers’ Compensation Board, the employer’s business is classified by industry for insurance purposes. Collectively, assessment payments from each industry group pay for the costs of all injuries and diseases arising from that group. Each industry group must be large enough to provide an adequate spread of risk and some stability to the industry assessment rate — an important consideration when the costs of an occupational injury can exceed $1 million.

How classification works within a business

Classifications are based on a business’ industrial activities — not the occupations within a business. In most cases, companies pay one assessment rate for all their activities. For example, an employer pays the same assessment rate for both an office worker and a shop worker employed in the same industry.

Effective January 1, 1998, “special hazard operations” will be classified separately for the purposes of assessment and injury reporting. If you are involved in any of the “special hazard operations” (listed under industry subclass 0725) you will be assessed separately for that activity, regardless of your business’ primary activity. For example, a road construction company involved in a small amount of bridge building may have paid the road construction rate of assessment for all its employees. But now, this business will be assessed separately for its bridge building activity, which constitutes a “special hazard operation” and carries a higher rate of assessment.

If your business involves any of these activities you must record payroll for that activity separately and advise the WCB Assessment Department so a special hazard classification can be set up for you.

Where assessment money goes

The WCB receives all assessment revenue and pays for injury and disease costs with it. The WCB is independent of the provincial government; assessment payments are not part of provincial revenue.
